ADHD Leads to Many Divorces

Posted: Nov 7, 2008 08:35 AM

A new study suggests tough news for parents with children who have ADHD. Data shows they are almost twice as likely to divorce before the child's 8th birthday than other couples. After the child's 8th birthday, however, divorce rates are basically the same. Authors of the study suggest it may just mean parents need to learn how to cope with the disorder better together. The study is published in the journal of Counseling and Clinical Psychology.
